
VIKISEWS

HOMEWORK EXAMPLE

/MASTER OF PATTERN HACKING/

2024

/master of pattern hacking/

EXAMPLE OF A COMPLETED HOME ASSIGNMENT ON IDENTIFYING THE SILHOUETTE, STRUCTURAL, STRUCTURAL-AND-DECORATIVE, AND DECORATIVE LINES IN A GARMENT

To start, pick any pattern from the Dresses category. Analyze and identify the silhouette, structural, structural-and-decorative, and decorative lines and details. Complete your home assignment following the example below. Outline the lines, label them, and indicate which type they belong to.

SILHOUETTE LINES

- The shoulder line aligns with the natural shoulder line in terms of height and width and matches the end shoulder point of the design.
- The waistline: The garment doesn't feature a waist seam, but it has a clearly accentuated waist.
- The hemline is straight on the inner layer and shaped on the outer layer of the skirt. The hem is flared towards the bottom.
- The side edge line shows the degree of the curve and the length of the fitted area at the waist.

STRUCTURAL LINES

These are the seams that join various pieces of the garment:

- Shoulder seam
- Seam attaching the sleeve to the garment armhole
- Side seam of the bodice and skirt
- Underarm seam of the sleeve
- Seam at the hem of the dress
- Invisible zipper closure in the center back seam

STRUCTURAL-AND-DECORATIVE LINES

These lines serve both structural functions and aesthetic purposes. They shape the garment at the bust, waist, and hips.

- Under-bust seam on the front and back bodice
- Shaped seam on the front and back skirt
- Gathering along the bust line, functioning as a transferred bust dart
- Gathering on the front and back skirt of the dress
- Button and button loop closure along the center front line
- Horizontal ruching in the midriff section of the dress on the back and front
- Gathering at the sleeve cap and hem
- Cuff at the bottom edge of the sleeve
- V-shaped neckline

DECORATIVE LINES

These lines don't affect the structure but add complexity to the overall shape of the garment:

- Ruffle along the neckline
- Ruffles along the under-bust seam and shaped seam of the skirt
- Ruffles along the hemline of the outer and inner layers of the skirt

/master of pattern hacking/